White House Shows No Cease Fire Order Was Given To Korean Troops

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 30.—(P)—The White House quoted today from hitherto unpublished secret document to show that the Eighth Army issued orders Monday directing the continuance of hostilities "until the signing of the armistice agreement."

Presidential secretary Joseph Short read from the document at a news conference in which he denied that ground fighting had been brought to a halt over the battlefield and challenged the accuracy of an Associated Press dispatch from Korea.

Short also took issue with a statement issued by the Associated Press in New York defending the AP story, and declared:

"This statement the Associated Press issued is designed to confuse the American people."

Short Quoted Secret Letter

Short quoted from what he said was a secret letter of instructions from the Eighth Army Nov. 27, Korean time, to subordinate commands:

"Steps will be initiated to insure that every United States, United Nations and Republic of Korea soldier is fully cognizant that hostilities will continue until signing of the armistice agreement."

Short said this secret letter was delivered to the President here Wednesday by General John E. Hull, vice chief of staff of the army, who also informed the President:

"The U. S. Corps and First ROK corps have issued orders containing similar instructions."

Short went on to quote General Hull as saying:

No Order Given
"The commanding general of the Eighth Army reports that no instructions have been issued from the Eighth Army or any of his corps headquarters as far as he knows to the effect that there is any such thing as a cease-fire at this time."

"The report in question apparently emanated from battalion, or company, or possibly from platoon level."

Short again read the first paragraph of an AP story under a Seoul, Korea, Wednesday which said:

"Orders from the highest source, possibly from the White House itself, brought the ground fighting to a complete, if temporary halt Wednesday."

Quotes AP Dispatch

Short read from the secret dispatch in reply to a statement by the Associated Press which said:

"It was a fact that the ground shooting was halted as a result of orders or directives given to United Nations fighting forces."

"The AP dispatch in question was part of a front-line reportorial effort to explain the effect in mystery. The Associated Press did not report a 'cease fire' order had been issued. It has fully reported the facts, so far as they have been obtainable and observable, including all authoritative statements which have: (1) denied any 'cease-fire' order has been issued, but (2) not disputed the fact that a lull developed in front-line ground fighting."

Thailand Coup Bloodless, Army Takes Over Rule

BANGKOK, Nov. 30.—(P)—Thailanders awoke today to find that a military clique had abolished the constitution, dissolved parliament and seized control of the government in a bloodless overnight coup.

A nine-man "state temporary administrative body" ousted the former government, then reappointed Premier Pibulsonggram. He also was given the post of defense minister in the new cabinet.

There was no violence. The coup was carried out in the old-time tradition of pressure without bloodshed—in sharp contrast to the naval revolt last June and a coup in February, 1949.

11 Men Parachute From Burning B-29

YOAKUM, Tex., Nov. 30.—(P)—Eleven men parachuted to safety early today from their blazing B-29 about 15 miles southwest of Yoakum.

Capt. Victor K. Cline, aircraft commander, Tempe, Ariz., said he gave the jump order after the No. 3 engine caught fire at 12:15 a.m. The bomber was on a training mission from Randolph Air Force base.

Train and Gasoline Truck Crash, Seven Cars Are Burning

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Nov. 30.—(P)—A Michigan Central passenger train No. 355 crashed into a gasoline truck at a crossing today and sheriff's officers reported "at least" seven cars on the train were burning.

Truman Warns Against Commie Trap In Seeking a Cease-Fire

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 30.—(P)—The country has warning from President Truman that Red negotiations for a cease fire in Korea may be no more than a Communist trap.

"We cannot," the President asserted, "allow our men to be caught off-balance by the enemy in case we cannot reach a satisfactory armistice."

Mr. Truman, meeting with news men for the second time since he flew to Key West Nov. 8, told them in blunt terms late yesterday that the fighting will continue in Korea as long as there is a possibility that United Nations forces might be caught off-balance.

Need Pressure of Forces
"The continued pressure of our forces on the enemy constitutes the strongest incentive for the latter to agree to a just armistice," he said. "Any premature slackening of our effort would cost us more casualties in the long run than need be lost."

Mr. Truman warned, as his press secretary, Joseph Short, did Wednesday, that there has been no cease-fire in Korea and "can be none until an armistice has been signed."

Until United Nations terms are met, he added, there can be no assurance of the future safety of UN forces, "including those who are prisoners of the enemy."

Mr. Truman supplemented his formal statement with an off-the-cuff lecture to assembled newsmen on what he called fake cease fire and armistice stories.

He said he was marching in France on Oct. 27, 1918, with his battery when he came on a French newspaper with headlines proclaiming the signing of the armistice. Just as he read the headline, he said, a shell burst 100 yards from him on one side and another on the other side.

That story, he said, was put out by Roy Howard, then writing for the United Press, and it was a fake.

He went on to say that an Associated Press story out of Seoul Wednesday, saying that on orders from the highest source, possibly the White House, ground fighting had been brought to a complete, if temporary halt, was on a parallel with it.

Mr. Truman said he understood the AP story came out because of intense competition for news.

A spokesman for the Associated Press in New York said:

"There is no foundation for suggesting that pressure was involved in an Associated Press news dispatch from Seoul Wednesday speculating on the battle zone indications that orders causing a lull in the Korean ground fighting came from the 'highest source, possibly from the White House.'"

Directive Caused It All

"It was a fact that the ground shooting was halted as a result of orders or directives given to the UN fighting forces."

The AP dispatch in question was part of a front-line reportorial effort to explain the effect as well as the possible origins of orders which are still surrounded by mystery. The Associated Press did not report a 'cease-fire' order had been issued. It has fully reported the facts, so far as they have been obtainable and observable, including all authoritative statements which have (1) denied any 'cease-fire' order has been issued, but (2) not disputed the fact that a lull developed in front-line ground fighting."

Fly Into Big Fight
The Sabres dove directly into the flight of 12 TU-2 twin engine bombers and 18 LA-9 single engine fighter-bombers. Then they swooped up and cut the flight of Migs in half and dove down again to finish off the slower conventional craft. It was one long, deadly sweep.

The result was ten Reds shot down—six TU-2s, three LA9s, one Mig—and three twin-engine bombers damaged.

The Reds were caught just after they crossed the Yalu river, apparently on a training flight.

Three other bombers were reported damaged. All were Russian-type propeller driven planes, twin-engine TU-2 bombers and single engine LA-9 fighter-bombers.

The Red formation had just crossed the Yalu river boundary from Manchuria, apparently on a training flight.

Battle For 30 Minutes
The 30-minute battle was the fourth air fight of the day and the biggest of any type—jet or propeller planes—fought in the Korean war. The earlier flights accounted for the probable and the fourth damaged Red.

The four-day air battle total a mounted to 18 Red jet planes reported destroyed, one probably destroyed and 13 damaged, against one U.S. plane shot down and three damaged.

Earlier the Fifth air force had studied films of Wednesday's fight and found one more Mig-15 was shot down than American pilots had reported.

Friday's great battle climaxed a week of increasing Red jet flights into North Korea and an astounding jump in Communist highway traffic to the front lines.

Spot Red Convoy
Long convoys of Red trucks were spotted last night racing toward the quiet forward lines with their lights blazing.

Flare-dropping Allied planes counted at least 9,200 of them, Far East Air Forces (FEAF) reported Friday. The figure is nearly double the previous high of 5,150, and a Fifth Air Force report indicated it may be incomplete.

No one guessed at how many more Red trucks might have passed on the roads without being spotted. Two thousand trucks are spotted on an average heavy night.

The Reds' phenomenal rush to build up supplies and presumably troops came as the ground forces were again balking at guaranteeing against an increase in their forces during an armistice.

Destroy 300 Red Trucks
Returning pilots reported they destroyed 300 Red trucks and damaged an unestimated number. FEAF suggested contributing factors to the unprecedented number of trucks could be (1) exceptionally clear weather and (2) much heavy damage to Communist rail lines that the Reds had to take to the highways.

Both air and naval forces stepped up attacks as ground action remained quiet.

Small Ground Action
An eighth army communiqué reported the only ground action up to now involved small attacks by three enemy platoons on the central front. In one of these, two Chinese platoons probed U.N. positions southwest of Kumsong. They were turned back after a two-hour skirmish in early morning darkness. The other was a probe by a single platoon east of the Pukan river. It was driven off by 8 a.m.

The communiqué reported "no significant action" on either the western or eastern fronts.

U.N. Wins Greatest Air War

Down 10 Red Planes, Damage 4, Lose No Sabres; Big Convoy Of Red Trucks Seen

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 30.—(P)—American Sabre jet pilots won the greatest air battle of the war today, reporting a total haul for the day of ten Red planes shot down, four damaged and one probably destroyed.

The Fifth Air Force said no Allied planes were lost.

Nine of the Red craft shot down were propeller-driven bombers and fighter-bombers, the first caught in a mass flight beyond the Manchurian border.

Near the close of a blazing day of aerial warfare, 31 U.S. F-86 Sabre jets spotted 16 Mig-15 jets flying top cover on 30 propeller-driven Russian-type planes.

The Sabres dove directly into the flight of 12 TU-2 twin engine bombers and 18 LA-9 single engine fighter-bombers. Then they swooped up and cut the flight of Migs in half and dove down again to finish off the slower conventional craft. It was one long, deadly sweep.

Streets Jammed Today For Christmas Parade

Everybody from far and near seemed to be downtown Friday afternoon to see the Christmas parade and welcome old man Santa to town.

Floater of unusual beauty and originality which showed the amount of work that had been put upon them—real work that brought many complications and lots of fun.

There was music, too, with the bands marching and playing, and plenty of horses from the Otterville Boot and Saddle club.

One of the cutest things in the parade was from the First Methodist church with children walking in big blocks—each block with a letter and the letters spelling Merry Christmas. There was a walking Christmas tree, too, with his cap holding a big star and he was carrying a candy cane. Then there was a little snow cone.

The Business and Professional Women's float had a house all ready for Christmas—for Christmas is first, now, pushing all of the other things, politics, atom bomb, taxes, everything, out of the picture.

The Beta Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a huge snow man and snow woman which jiggled and danced as they rode along in the parade. There, too, was a little boy dressed as a snow boy, riding on a sled and waving to the crowd. There was a light post that was lighted and the eyes of the snow man and snow woman lighted up, too.

The Missouri Pacific Eagle Minstrel was there in a Christmas setting of red and white, members dressed in their colorful and unique costumes, playing musical instruments and singing. They had a real piano on the float.

The Kiwanis float had on it an x-ray machine that shows up traces of TB and around on the float were pictures of the cheery Christmas seals which aid in stamping out the disease.

The Missouri Pacific Boosters had a huge merchandise box car, 25 feet long, in blue, yellow and white. In front was "Progress—1851 to 1951" and across the back was "Service Institution." It is a real railroad box car.

The Missouri Pacific Women had a clever bay window inside of which was a woman sitting in a rocking chair—a shut-in—and outside three boys singing Christmas carols.

The Cole Camp was the little white church with blue windows and cross on the steeple, with the lettering on the side of the float, "The Church, Our Only Hope." This was from the St. Paul's Lutheran church of that city.

Quisenberry 4-H club had Christmas in Korea with a cannon and guns, Christmas packages and a mail sack. There was a sign that read "Sedalia 6171 miles—Kumsong 14 miles."

Oak Point 4-H had the theme of "Our sons of the soil are keepers of the nation" and on it were the horn of plenty, Santa Claus, Uncle Sam, Miss Liberty, the 4-H club and the orphan children they help.

Brown school showed the nativity scene with the angels. It was in blue, white and silver.

High Point school's floats were in three divisions: "The Mayflower, with a boat with sails in which were Pilgrims; the first

Thanksgiving, with a loaded table with Indians and Pilgrims sitting around, and then the last, the Statue of Liberty. If it were not for the Mayflower, the first Thanksgiving and liberty there would be no Christmas in America.

Georgetown school was the story of the three little pigs with the straw house, the stick house and the brick house.

The Church of Jesus Christ had a house with a television aerial on which Santa got his coat caught and up on the roof was a boy in night cap and nightshirt trying to get him loose.

The Gospel Tabernacle had a nativity scene and a large wooden cross around which were angels.

The Van Natta Multi Workers had a house covered with snow and inside were seen, through Christmas tree and dolls in a living room. On it was printed: "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas."

Walnut Grove had a Santa and reindeer and by a mantle were youngsters in pajamas with toys Santa had brought.

Ringen Brushy school had a family Christmas scene with some of the boys in uniform—home for Christmas.

Sacred Heart school had a beautiful nativity scene with the wise men and angels.

The First Assembly of God had a little boy in pajamas holding a gun he had gotten for Christmas. On either side were angels and in the background was a Bible. This was the angels guarding the child from the gun.

The Lions club's was a colorful float filled with packages depicting things done all year long by the Lions club, pet show, Hallo-wen party, basketball—and on it was Santa's Little Helper and a Lion.

Mark Twain school had a sleigh drawn by reindeer, with red-nosed Rudolph in the lead. In the sleigh was a snowman in top hat surrounded by large, attractively wrapped Christmas gifts.

Vishinsky To Talk To Big 3

Political Committee Of UN Suspends All Debate Pending Try For Disarm Decision

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(P)—The United Nations political committee voted unanimously today to suspend debate on rival East-West disarmament plans pending efforts by the Big Four to seek agreement in secret talks.

The discussions among Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States are expected to get under way immediately behind closed doors. The committee asked them to report back on their progress by Dec. 10.

The committee acted after Soviet foreign minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky agreed to participate in such talks. Spokesmen for Britain, France and the United States had agreed previously to do so.

To Reconcile Plan
Under the terms of a resolution submitted by Iraq, Pakistan and Syria the Big Four plus assembly president Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico constitute a sub-committee. They were instructed to try to reconcile rival disarmament plans put forward by Russia on one side and by the western powers on the other.

U. S. delegate Philip C. Jessup said this was a hopeful development, but commented that the beligerent tone of Vishinsky's acceptance speech indicated the task ahead would be difficult. Similar views were expressed by spokesmen for France and Britain.

The western powers had already agreed to the talks in an effort to resolve rival East-West plans for disarmament.

UN Chief to Preside
Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, general assembly president, will preside at the four-power meetings which are expected to begin shortly.

Vishinsky prefaced his acceptance with a blistering attack on previous speeches by Jessup and others and a castigation of the western disarmament plan.

"We are ready . . . to continue our efforts and take part in the work of the proposed sub-committee," Vishinsky announced.

Other nations in the 60-member committee had waited two days for the Kremlin's decision.

Speaks For Amendments
The Soviet delegation is convinced that its amendments to the western three-power plan would facilitate and assure solution of the task before us," Vishinsky added.

Spokesmen for the western Big Three already have denounced these amendments as an attempt to cut the heart out of the plan and twist it into a renewed version of old Russian proposals.

It thus appeared likely that the talks would end in deadlock and the whole problem be thrown back to the full committee.

Youth for Christ Rally a Success Thursday Night

The first Youth for Christ rally was held at Smith-Cotton high school Thursday night and was considered very successful with a fine spirit of cooperation.

An inspirational address was given by Dr. Jesse Hendly of Atlanta, Ga., which resulted in six decisions for Christ. The names and addresses of these six youths were obtained and given to their pastors.

An outstanding part of the program was the singing and song leading of Lowell Liestner, of Orlando, Fla.

Chester Cahlfaut of Sedalia served as master of ceremonies.

This Youth for Christ rally is non-denominational and the committee will meet again soon with the idea of planning another such rally.

Milk Price Up Here

Local dairies in Sedalia announced today an increase of one cent per quart in the wholesale price of milk. The price rise will be effective Saturday, Dec. 1. The increase is due to an increase in prices paid to milk producers it was stated. This follows another one cent rise which was effective Nov. 1.

The Weather

Movement for More Religious Observance of Christmas Grows

The movement, started several years ago, to "Put Christ Back Into Christmas" is getting under way earlier this year. It also is being promoted on a wider basis by both religious and secular groups who want to stress the spiritual rather than the commercial aspects of the Christmas festival.

Protestant and Roman Catholic organizations are giving the campaign full support. In addition various civic groups and commercial firms are devising special plans to make Americans more deeply aware of the real meaning of Christmas.

A companion for a more religious observance of Christmas has been launched by the Joint Department of Evangelism of the National Council of Churches, the most widely representative Protestant body in the country.

One of the emphases of the Protestant drive, according to Dr. Jesse M. Bader, director of the department, is on getting more people to demand Christmas cards with a religious theme. Letters have been sent to 2,000 ministerial associations and 900 councils of churches urging them to persuade parishioners to buy and send only cards that have a definite Christmas message.

The letters also called upon the local groups to encourage churches to present Christmas pageants, to hold Christmas Eve services, and to organize groups of carollers to sing the traditional Christmas hymns and songs. The singers will be expected not merely to entertain in old people's homes and orphanages, but to visit department stores and factories—even jails.

Reflecting the long-standing concern of religious leaders over the increasing commercialization of Christmas, the National Council department also asked the ministerial associations and church councils to do all possible to persuade local merchants not to begin their Christmas sales and advertising until after Thanksgiving.

One of the Roman Catholic groups most active in the movement to make the Christmas observance more reverent and spiritual is the Milwaukee Archconfraternity of Christian Mothers, which has begun its third seasonal drive.

The Christian Mothers have arranged to have the slogan "Put Christ Back Into Christmas" together with a picture of the Nativity scene, appear once more on billboards, in street cars and buses, and in taxicabs and store windows. In addition, large electric signs in Milwaukee will announce the slogan.

The Archconfraternity is also urging that cribs be displayed in every home and that birthday cakes be baked in which there will be a single candle in honor of the Christ Child, "whose birthday it is." It is distributing Christmas stickers for windows and doors for packages and for car windows. The group is also distributing napkins with the legend "Put Christ Back Into Christmas" printed in gold letters.

A special song entitled "Let's Put Christ Back Into Christmas" has been written for the Christian Mothers' campaign by Virgil Kalchthaler of Sheboygan Wis. Meanwhile the Christian Mothers are planning ample use of radio and television to promote their project.

Sunday School Lesson

Moral Uplift and Moral Decay
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

A strong impression one receives from the history of the Jewish people in the pages of the Old Testament is of the intensity of the contrasts between good and evil, both as manifested in individual characters, and in the life of the people as a whole.

And a further impression is of the way these same contrasts between good men and bad men, between evil and good in the life of the people, are found in every nation today, even in the best.

It is this that makes the Old Testament so vital a document in illustration and warning. There one sees the whole process of moral uplift and decay, of vision and call to high estate, with frustration, defeat, and ruin through disobedience to the high commands of righteousness and truth.

Nowhere, so far as I know, is the history of a people in success and failure, in defeat and revival, so clearly set down. It is for this reason that it brings to modern peoples a solemn warning, adapting a New Testament expression (1 Corinthians 10:12), "Wherefore let the nation that thinketh it standeth take heed lest it fall."

What were the distinctive sins and evils that weakened Israel and brought about decay and defeat at various times? And to what degree are such sins and evils prevalent in the life of today?

Deepest and most fundamental in relation to the highest character and ideals was the sin of setting individual interests against the rights and welfare of all.

An intense patriotism and devotion to the commonweal, expressed in such passionate utterances as in Isaiah 62:1, marked the noblest characters in Israel, and the highest aspirations of the people. But over this were those who put their own interests first, and who cared for nothing for the matter of right or wrong as they attained their ends.

In primitive times was Achan (Joshua 7), who in a day of victory grabbed for himself what rightfully belonged to all. The terrible fate that befell him and his family was of primitive cruelty, but it emphasized the sin of weakening that small community through selfishness and disregard of others.

With these sins of selfishness were associated the sins of violence and crime, the racial and religious prejudices, the intolerances and persecutions, the corruption of religion itself through a pretentious worship devoid of righteousness or decency — the sins that Jesus denounced in the flaming "Woes" of Matthew 23.

Today, while in the great democracies we are apprehensive of dangers from without, there is not a single nation, even the best, in which the forces of evil, through selfishness and crime and disregard of all moral standards, are not burrowing from within.

There are plenty of good people thank God! But a tragic fact is the apathy of the good when it comes to action against evil, and the refusal of many to recognize how great are the evils that threaten our democratic ideals and that patriotism sincerely devoted to God and country.

Religious Movie At Trinity Church

A religious movie, "Like a Mighty Army," produced by Cathedral Films in Hollywood for the United Lutheran Church in America, will be shown at Trinity Lutheran church, 10th street at Osage avenue, on Sunday, Dec. 2, at 8 p. m., according to the pastor, the Rev. C. Arthur Freeberg.

This film is one of a series of movies being shown at the Trinity church once a month under the sponsorship of the church council.

"Like a Mighty Army" is the story of a very self-satisfied church which has lost its sense of urgency for the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The work of the congregation is going exceedingly well. The church is growing in numbers. All local expenses are being more than met.

The benevolences of the congregation are being paid promptly. Because these things are true some of the members feel that the church should sit back and relax. Eddie Collins, a filling station operator and consecrated Christian, disagrees with that attitude and urges his fellow members to establish a new mission in an unchurched community. What happens when Eddie Collins' congregation does establish a new mission is the inspiring story of the film.

The public is cordially invited to see the film.

Two Movies Sunday At 5th St. Church

In harmony with the emphasis that is being placed this year on the missionary possibilities in Latin America, a special missionary film, entitled "Wings to the Word," will be shown at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Fifth Street Methodist church. The film depicts in a vivid fashion some of the missionary work that is being done now and reveals the opportunities that are still open to the church. A short film, "Modern Mexico," will also be shown.

The dining table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake in gold with the lettering "50" in white, which also held a miniature bride and groom with the "50th Anniversary" in gold on it. Gold candleholders and yellow mums were at either side of the cake. A corsage of yellow roses tied in gold was given Mrs. Royce and yellow rose boutonnieres for Mr. Royce.

Favors were small chrysanthemum boutonnieres and corsages, and place cards were printed with gold with the lettering "50" on each.

The invocation was given by John W. Welch, and a poem was read by Mrs. John W. Welch, appropriate for the occasion.

Methodist Men See Two Movies At Supper Meet

Thirty Methodist men of the Fifth Street church met in the newly decorated dining hall of the church at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday for a pot luck supper and social hour.

After the business meeting conducted by the club president, Kenneth Anderson, the group had a spirited singing service led by the pastor, the Rev. Lee F. Soxman.

In 1950 the club sponsored and helped raise the money for the purchase of motion picture projection equipment which was used in the showing of two films; a color strip of Yosemite National park and a travelogue of the scenes where Scottish literature was developed.

The men's club earlier this month waterproofed and redecorated the church basement after a new coat of paint had been applied. Nearly every man of the club had spent at least two evenings in preparing the walls for plastering and painting under the foremanship of Myron Lindquist.

The December meeting, to be held Dec. 19, will be a father and son affair.

Dresden PTA Shown Many Travel Films

The Dresden PTA held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the school. Mrs. N. W. Dorrance, president, had charge of the business session. Opening song, "Holy, Holy, Holy," was accompanied by Mrs. D. E. Edwards and followed by prayer by Mrs. C. E. Romig.

After the business session, Miss Lula Wheeler presented her pupils of A and B classes in songs they had memorized for English lessons, "America, the Beautiful" and "America."

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Goetz were introduced and beautiful colored films were shown that Mr. Goetz had taken in traveling through many states. He also showed pictures that Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kemp had received from their son in Japan. Tommy Hudson of Sedalia played several piano selections.

Mrs. Ernest Foley, hostess, assisted by Mrs. N. W. Dorrance and Mrs. C. E. Romig, served refreshments.

The next meeting will be the Christmas program by the school.

Bothwell PTA Has Chili Supper, Meeting

The Bothwell P.T.A. held its regular monthly meeting, Nov. 16 with a chili supper. A short business meeting followed. The program was led by Miss Joanne Greer and Miss Madeline Ream in the absence of the teacher. One recitation, "Jack Horner's Thanksgiving Pie" was given by four-year-old June Greer.

Following the meeting everyone returned to the basement where a social hour, refreshments and more chili were enjoyed.

Marijuana Sales In Schools Cause Tighter Rein on Youth

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Nov. 30.—(P)—A grand jury, shocked at revelations of marijuana sales at Wichita Falls schools, had this advice for parents today:

Keep your children at home. Find entertainment and recreation for them there. Chaperone their gatherings.

Limit the amount of money given your children.

Limit the use for pleasure purposes of the family automobile.

Know where your children are and "not just think you know where they are."

With that advice, the jury yesterday indicted 10 persons on 21 counts in connection with marijuana sales in Wichita Falls schools.

Eight of the indicted are adults. The other two, although adults by legal definition, are high school students.

In all, 15 persons have been arrested. The other five are expected to be indicted in other cities.

Dist. Atty. Alan Haley estimates that 25 high school students were involved in possession or sale of the drug. Another seven to 10 junior high school students—in the 13-14 age bracket—may have been touched by the ring. Investigation in junior high schools is continuing.

17 Children Visit Dad, So He Consents To Have Operation

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Nov. 30.—(P)—For the first time in 15 years the big family of 68-year-old Howard Kerlin had a reunion—at his bedside in a hospital room here.

Kerlin, a retired farmer, was told he should undergo surgery for an ailment the nature of which was not disclosed. But he refused to consent until he saw his nine sons and eight daughters, ranging in age from 17 to 41. Deeply touched by their coming, his mind at peace, Kerlin gave way and was operated on yesterday.

Five daughters came from Long Beach, Calif., the others of the 17 from western Pennsylvania and one from Maryland. Their mother agreed with them that "the get-together boosted our morale as much as it did dad's."

Kefauver Allowing Name on California Ballot for President

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 30.—(P)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) says he has "given permission" for the placing of his name on the California primary election ballot as a candidate for president.

He told newsmen last night that "while I am not a candidate and am not running for any office except the United States Senate in 1954, I am not evading the opportunity of running for president."

Kefauver, head of a recent congressional investigation of crime in the United States, said he had discussed the matter with a group supporting his candidacy.

"People who have talked with President Truman recently have said he will not run," the Senator said.

Sharon Has a Little Skunk, He Follows Her To School Most Days

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(P)—Sharon Wilbur, 7, has a new pet—a skunk—which she has been taking to her second grade classes in the Cook county elementary public school.

The three-month-old skunk, named Flower, has been to school a half dozen times and has conducted himself with decorum while pupils sketched him or wrote compositions about him.

One little student wrote: "Sharon washes her hands after she pets her pet." Flower was deodorized after Sharon's father bought him from a farmer.

Fog of Confusion Over Korea Begins to Clear on Some Points

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The fog of confusion over the status of war and the prospects for peace in Korea lifted somewhat today. In the estimate of responsible authorities here, several points now stand clear.

1. The fighting can be expected to go on but not for the time being, with the same intensity as before the present conditional agreement on a cease-fire line.

2. Ground action by United Nations forces presumably will be limited in the main to artillery pressure on the enemy, reconnaissance patrols checking on Red troop positions and limited attacks if needed to knock any suspicious Communist concentrations off balance.

3. Naval and air action will continue full tilt; in fact, air combat may well be stepped up.

4. U. N. ground forces are not expected to try to advance their line since such areas would be given up should truce negotiations be successful within the 30-day armistice line agreement.

5. The expectation in Washington is that these negotiations will be successful if the enemy command agrees (A) to prompt and complete release of all allied soldiers held as prisoners and (B) to some type of inspection of forces during the armistice.

6. If truce negotiations drag on past the 30-day period ending Dec. 27, but if there appeared then to be a good chance for completing the negotiations, an extension of the date would seem to be possible.

The conflict of news reports during the last two days is attributed by some authorities here to a miscalculation or a lack of understanding as to the impact of news that there had been even a limited slackening of the war.

The military instructions which Gen. James A. Van Fleet issued as Eighth army commander, the nature of which have not been officially disclosed, are regarded here as an effort on the general's part to adjust the fighting to the current truce situation.

Van Fleet's headquarters said yesterday his orders had been misinterpreted at lower echelons in Korea. Presumably this misinterpretation was responsible for the fact that for a time ground fighting came to a virtual standstill and word spread at the front that a kind of cease-fire was in effect.

What was really intended, as authorities here understand the situation, was that pending further developments in the truce talks, UN forces should not engage in combat for territory which in a few weeks they might have to yield under terms of an armistice.

What was lacking for almost 24 hours was some official explanation to make this clear. The misunderstanding probably would never have arisen at all had either Van Fleet or Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters anticipated the excitement that would be raised when even some of the shooting stopped.

Forewarned of the reactions, either headquarters could have provided in advance information as to the meaning and extent of actions that were due to become public anyway.

Ridgway has contended all along there would be no end to hostilities until a full armistice had been reached. Pres. Truman brought out in his news conference statement at Key West yesterday that Ridgway's policy is his policy also and that "the continued pressure of our forces on the enemy constitutes the strongest incentive for the latter to agree to a just armistice."

Kroger Manager Wins Two Awards For Store Here

Friendliness and cleanliness are two things that Ralph Koch, manager of Kroger store, specializes in and he has two trophies to prove it.

Mr. Koch won the award given by the company for those two things. The eight weeks contest among stores of the district has just been completed and Mr. Koch has received his trophies, a gold cup and cigarette lighter. His employees, who have helped him keep the store clean and have followed his leadership in friendliness, will also receive cigarette lighters. They are Mrs. Roy Alexander, Mrs. Albert Anderson and Dale Hunt.

This is the second year the contest has been conducted by the company and this is the second time Mr. Koch's store has won the trophy. He had been manager of that store 11 years and was transferred to the Sedalia store three months ago.

Number of Labor Strikes Increased In Oct. Over Sept.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The number of labor strikes and the resulting manpower idleness increased in October over September.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that 640 strikes, including 440 new ones, were in progress in October. This compared with 600 stoppages, including 400 new ones, in September.

Total idleness due to strikes rose from 2,400,000 man-days in September to 2,750,000 in October. However, man-days lost through strikes have totaled 20,050,000 for the first 10 months of this year, compared with 35,900,000 for the same period in 1950.

October's three largest strikes were the east coast longshoremen's walkout and the airplane industry strikes at Wright Aeronautical Corp. in New Jersey and Douglas Aircraft Co. in California.

Committee Agrees Certain Chemicals Reduce Tooth Decay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—After a study of the pros and cons, a special committee of the national research council has concluded that the addition of certain chemicals to drinking water can help reduce tooth decay.

In endorsing the fluoridation of public water supplies, however, the committee said it should be done only under expert dental and engineering supervision by state boards of health.

A report made by the group last night said the safety of fluoridation depends on proper controls. It also said that its effectiveness depends on proper selection of water supplies to be treated.

Because of the controversy over the matter, the committee was appointed last spring to make the study. Its parent body, the national research council, is a federation of scientific societies chartered by Congress.

Dog Funeral Costs $1,000

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 30.—(P)—Pal, a 15-year-old dog of indefinite breed, went to the grave yesterday with a funeral his master estimated cost $1,000.

Fred Schmitt rated Pal above all other pets on his 40-acre farm north of Denver. And there are a lot of pets—50 dogs, 75 cats, four horses and many pigeons.

Mourners, friends of Schmitt and his wife and Pal, filed by a mahogany casket to look at Pal for the last time. Some petted him. A minister spoke. The casket, made by Schmitt, was banked in flowers.

"That dog was my whole life," Schmitt said.

Schmitt won Pal 10 years ago in a costly legal battle with a man accused of maltreating the dog.

"I've spent $200,000 in the last 35 years on my pets," Schmitt said. "I don't regret a cent of it."

He rated Pal as his closest friend. "Goodbye, goodbye, old Pal," Schmitt sobbed as he knelt before the coffin.

"He understands, Fred," woman mourner whispered. "He understands."

The Rev. J. B. Knifton, pastor of the Mount Cavalry Church of God, spoke briefly at the funeral.

"I come here as a friend of the Schmitts, not as a preacher," he said.

"At first I feared there would be unfriendly criticism of the service. This is no pretense. This is not a religious ceremony. It is being done in respect to a couple we know and admire."

Russian Attack on Yugoslavia Is Gravest War Threat

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, November 30.—Meeting with the joint chiefs of staff in Washington last month, General Eisenhower indicated that the greatest danger of war was a Soviet attack on Yugoslavia by Soviet satellites next spring.

If this happens, U. S. defense planners have figured the Red armies are almost certain to strike through the Ljubljana Gap in northern Yugoslavia, then rush down the Dalmatian coast to Sovietized Albania. This not only would cut off most allied supplies sent to the aid of Yugoslavia, but would put Moscow within a few minutes' bombing distance of Rome and the Vatican.

Thus the entire Adriatic seacoast of Italy from Venice to Brindisi, would face a Red waterfront, and the Italian population, one-third Communist, inevitably would be subject to sabotage, upheaval and eventual revolution.

These were some of the factors I had in mind in urging Marshal Tito to cut red tape and release Archbishop Stepinac right away. For this now famous churchman had become not only a football of politics but a symbol of persecution, which was seriously hurting relations between our two countries.

Actually I knew, from having spent two years in Yugoslavia directing Quaker relief work after World War I, also from my visit there last winter, that there is little religious discrimination in Yugoslavia. I have served on the same hospital board with Moslems, Orthodox and Catholics, seen them work together and live together. Probably there is more tolerance there than here.

Symbol of Bitterness
Furthermore, the National Catholic Welfare Council in cooperation with CARE picked a Catholic attorney, John A. Zvetina of Chicago, who speaks the language and who made a thorough survey of Yugoslavia last September to see whether CARE food packages were being distributed fairly as between Catholic and non-Catholic, Communist and non-Communist. He returned with a highly favorable report.

Despite this, it was only natural that the continued incarceration of Archbishop Stepinac should rankle many Catholics in this country. In releasing him, however, Tito faced a domestic problem which, I regret to say, was comparable perhaps to that of Senator Russell of Georgia if he were suddenly to reverse of himself and vote for the FEPC for southern Negroes. For in Orthodox Serbia the religious massacres that took place under Hitler, and for which Archbishop Stepinac was imprisoned, still cause great bitterness. It is charged that 700,000 Serbs were killed in these church massacres because they refused to desert the Orthodox faith.

What complicated Tito's political problem was that Serbia is that part of the Yugoslav confederation where he is least popular, where he has to gain strength rather than lose it. In Serbia, Archbishop Stepinac has become a burning, bitter symbol. Thus Tito, while winning friends in the USA, knew that he would have to make some enemies at home.

The fact remains that, despite these misunderstandings, Yugoslavia is more vital to the military defense of the Vatican than any other country in the world. For, should Red armies take the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia, it would be only a short time before Italy must come under Moscow's wing.

Acheson's Ear Plugs
When Secretary of State Acheson first arrived in Paris, he found his room over an entrance where the loudspeaker below was busy, day and night, calling chauffeurs and their cars. Sleep was impossible and Mrs. Acheson went out to buy some ear plugs.

Returning half an hour later, she found her husband asleep. Carefully, she laid two old-fashioned red wax-and-wool ear plugs on the bedside table near the secretary of state.

Later and much to her dismay, she came back to find him trying to swallow them.

He thought they were sleeping pills!

Note — At Paris, Acheson has again been talking about resigning.

Physically tired from the long-winded diplomatic debates, discouraged over the lack of UN progress, Dean has forcefully realized that every politician arriving in Paris beats a track to Eisenhower's door, while virtually ignoring the secretary of state. Feeling that he is a liability, Acheson has been talking of handing in his resignation so as to be out of the way before the political campaign gets started.

Wilson's Production
Appointment of Roger L. Putnam to the key job of economic stabilizer is the first sign that the White House is getting fed up with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson; also that Truman is listening to new Democratic chairman Frank McKinney.

Wilson had been telling associates that he would name the new economic stabilizer. He was particularly anxious to name him because it was the friction between Wilson and Eric Johnston that caused the latter's resignation. Despite this, the President put in his own man.

Furthermore, the Democrat he named, ex-Mayor Putnam of Springfield, Mass., is a friend of Democratic chairman McKinney. The two worked closely together in the office of war contract negotiation, both are bank officials, and Putnam is also president of the Package Machinery Co., a director of the Perkins Machine and Gear Co., and the Van Norman Co. He also has the unique distinction of being the sole trustee of the Lowell Observatory of Flagstaff, Ariz.

The President got to know Charles E. Wilson when he was vice chairman of the old war production board, at which time Truman was chairman of the Senate investigating committee. Wilson, however, didn't have to take the bricks and the responsibilities chairman Donald Nelson did. Now that he is in the No. 1 spot, he hasn't been able either to stand the gaff or get out production.

Real fact is that U. S. military production is so bad that it can hardly be believed.

Injured Minister Walks 14 Miles In Snow to Aid Pair

ELLENSBURG, Wash., Nov. 30

—(AP)—A minister injured in a plane crash hiked barefooted 14 miles through snow and water in the Cascade mountains to bring word that led to the rescue of his two badly hurt companions.

The Rev. Harold W. Borhauer, 29, of Wilbur, Wash., his feet half-frozen and cut, stumbled into a logging camp near Eaton yesterday and told of his friend's plight. Borhauer suffered two broken ribs and an injured left arm in the crash Wednesday in the rugged Lost Lake country near Snoqualmie Pass.

Left on the trail were pilot Paul Gemberling, Spokane, Wash., contractor, and Harold Lanphere, a parishioner of Rev. Borhauer's at Wilbur. They were left under a tree when Gemberling's injuries forced him to stop after hiking five miles.

Borhauer returned from a brief visit in St. Louis on legal business.

The last two miles he could only take steps of six inches, and then only about 10 at a time before resting. The trio's light plane crashed after icing up and going into a spin.

Mardi Gras Theme Tonight At Third S-C High Carnival

A gala time is in store for fun seekers at Smith-Cotton high school tonight when the annual S-C carnival will be held. The theme of the 1951 exposition is the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

The carnival is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. and close at midnight. Proceeds will again go to the expensive stage curtains that were placed in the auditorium last spring. Smith-Cotton officials hope the profits this year will make possible the last big payment on the curtains.

This will mark the third straight school year S-C has produced the carnival. It once was held regularly, but was discontinued in the 1930s.

In 1949 the production was a huge success, but last year bad luck struck. An electrical transformer burned out just when business had reached its peak. That was all for the night.

Besides the main attraction held in the auditorium, five other shows will be given. Four of these are musical and dance entertainment or a combination of both.

For the "eaters," six concession stands will be operated.

Sedalia's will have their first opportunity to visit the "Little Theatre" where the classical Boys' Follies are to be held. The Boys' Follies are to be held. The Boys' Follies are to be held.

Senators Favor and Oppose Tigher Consumer Credit Knot

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(P)—Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) today backed Eric Johnston's appeal for tougher consumer credit controls, but Senator Welker (R-Idaho) said Congress was wise in liberalizing the curbs.

Johnston made the appeal as he stepped aside as director of economic stabilization, a post he has held for ten months. His successor, Roger L. Putman, Massachusetts industrialist and former mayor of Springfield, was sworn in yesterday.

At a final news conference, Johnston said the government should be able to remove all direct economic controls within two years, unless there is war.

But he voiced strong opposition to ending price and wage controls at this time. "This would be extremely unfortunate," he said.

Fulbright and Welker also disagreed regarding a U. S. Chamber of Commerce statement urging that wage and price controls be abolished in the public interest.

"I think the chamber is wrong," Fulbright told a reporter. "With the cost of living index at an all-time high, we certainly shouldn't be thinking about removing controls."

10 Orphans Of Suicide Offered Aid

HAYDEN, Colo., Nov. 30—(P)—Residents of this tiny northwestern Colorado community of 767, stepped up today to offer aid for 10 children orphaned by a double suicide.

They are the children of Phillip and Tony Linda Montoya who killed themselves minutes apart with the same gun yesterday.

Mrs. Dorothy Todd, welfare office director, said neighbors and friends of the family will care for the children until her office can determine their permanent status.

"It seems like everybody in Hayden has called me to offer to care for the children permanently," she said. "But we are checking on the possibility that they have relatives before we make any decision."

Howard R. Root, county coroner, said Mrs. Montoya, 39, killed herself and then her grief-stricken husband, 43, called for help and shot himself.

Three children were home at the time of the shootings. The others were in school. They are Phillip, 14; Helen, 16; Betty, 13; Bobby, 11; Raymond and Ted, 9; Leroy, 7; Mary, 6; Dorothy, 3, and Jane, 1.

The tragedy recalled the case of 11 children recently orphaned at Leonard, Mich. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Murray J. Moore, the oldest 15, were orphaned Nov. 10 when their parents were killed in an automobile accident.

BPW Girls Have Struggle Herding Animals For Float

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club had a terrible struggle with the elephant and donkey used on their float in the Christmas parade — almost as much trouble as the politicians are having with the animals.

They were working down at the Acme Printing company trying to paint the donkey — but somehow the paint just wasn't the right shade for a donkey — it was too red — and a red donkey might cause trouble. They didn't have any paint — so they tried ink. First brown ink. But they didn't have much brown ink—not enough to help the color. Then they tried black ink. A printer's ink that was in such big chunks that they had to cut up into smaller pieces.

Most of the girls weren't used to printers ink — and they showed it — in fact their fingernails still look like their hands might be in mourning.

But the donkey finally came out in good shape — much to the surprise of the girls — the ink and the paint did mix and the donkey looked pretty good.

Then came the elephant — and no elephant could behave worse — pink elephants, white elephants or any kind of elephants. They could not even coax it with peanuts.

The elephant was made on the second floor of the building and the girls wanted to get him down in the basement to paint him. But he was too big to get down the rather small stairways. They decided to use the elevator — and anyone who wouldn't expect something to happen when an elephant gets on an elevator is just plain crazy.

The elephant, of course, needed a little support so one of the girls got on the elevator with him. It was a little crowded and instead of the usual procedure of a girl riding an elephant, this time the girl had to hold Mr. Long Trunk.

The elevator started down while the group of girls on the top floor watched. Another waited in the basement for it to come down. It reached the first floor in good shape, but between the first floor and the basement it got stuck—and nothing they could do could get it moving. They worked for about 20 minutes. It was hot as blazes on the elevator and the girl was not only sweating it out, but the elephant was getting plenty heavy.

The girls struggled and struggled, but the elevator wouldn't go on down. Finally they decided maybe it would go up again as far as the first floor—and they worked on that angle probably with the girl on the elevator offering a few prayers. Then it happened! It did reach the first floor and off got the weary girl and her elephant companion.

Then they had to do a little more figuring. They still had to get the elephant to the basement to paint it. So they took him outdoors and through the door that led to the basement from the outside.

Now if that float wasn't appreciated by those who lined the streets and watched the parade—the girls will always think it should have been. And if the girl on the elevator was a Republican she probably never will be again, even if she had already had so much trouble in trying to paint the donkey. She and the other girls may even be seriously thinking of starting another party — a party of their own — a party that doesn't have an animal.—H. L.

Warren Takes 'Foul' Verdict In Mat Show

Unnecessary roughness on the part of Johnny Dobbs, Omaha, in an unpopular decision at the Thursday night wrestling matches, when referee Ben Sherr gave the third fall to Neal Warren of Columbus, Ohio, which incidentally gave the match to Warren. It was one of the roughest matches seen in the local ring in several seasons.

Warren throughout the three falls roughed up Dobbs, but when the going got tough in the third period, and Dobbs continually knocked Warren out of the ring when he tried to climb back, Sherr gave the match to Warren. The fans clamored to let the match go on, so Dobbs could really get tough with Warren.

Warren Takes 'Foul' Verdict In Mat Show

The first fall went to Warren in 12 minutes, 45 seconds when he used a knee tackle and body smother to win. Then Dobbs returned to take the second fall after being kicked out of the ring by Warren. When Dobbs came up onto the ropes, Warren came in to knock him off, Dobbs shouldered Warren, went over the ropes to smother Warren for the fall in seven minutes, 23 seconds. The third fall went to Warren in four minutes, 20 seconds.

In the girl match, Connie O'Connor, Toledo, Ohio, was rewarded in the grudge scrap by winning two falls out of three in a roundhouse wrestling fight. Miss Rose Marie Alvarez, Madrid, Spain, took the opening fall in 13 minutes, 10 seconds using body slams and presses. Miss O'Connor won the second with a body press in 15 minutes, 52 seconds, and the third in one minute, 56 seconds when she jerked Miss Alvarez over the ropes, dropped her on the canvas and got a body press.

The opening event was another one filled with "Texas rules" when Mara Duba, Rio de Janeiro, roughed up Tom Hawkins, Dallas, Tex., to win in 12 minutes, 56 seconds. Duba after giving Hawkins the "works" came through with a body press to win the fall.

Grain Prices Slip Despite An Upturn At Session's Close

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(P)—Holders of grain contracts were a little more willing to let go on the Board of Trades today and prices slipped in all pits.

Losses weren't large and a slight rally started near the close. Still, the underlying trend was weak from the start.

Wheat closed 1/2 - 1 1/4 lower, corn 1/4 - 1 1/4 lower, oats 1/4 to 1 cent lower, soybeans 1/4 - 1 1/2 lower.

The slump was not unexpected, particularly as far as wheat was concerned. Wheat has enjoyed quite a bit of strength this week and was entitled to a reaction, traders thought. The distant, 1952 wheat contracts weakened most, following the pattern set yesterday.

Export houses bought wheat the start and it was this which gave the grain a flash of firmness, soon dissipated.

A pretty heavy export business was worked overnight, Italy, Austria, West Germany, Belgium and Finland taking the cereal. West Germany completed its buying for December shipment.

Speaker at Kiwanis States---

Cut of Non-Essential Costs Will Aid Defense Effort Most

The most important thing that all governments — federal, state and local — can do to help the defense effort and reduce inflation is to cut all non-essential spending to the bone.

This was the assertion of Edward Staples, executive director of Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, speaking to the Kiwanis club Thursday at the Bothwell hotel.

A movie of hidden taxes was shown by Jack Knott, public relations director of the survey.

Staples said that government today is largely occupied with providing services for the people rather than executing only the necessary fundamental functions of government. He added, however, that "too often we as citizens are for economy in government but do not want to give up some service that benefits us."

"Every budget request of all governments should be weighed on the twin yardstick of do-we-need-it and can we afford it," Staples asserted.

Staples said that there were nearly twice as many civilian federal employees stationed in Missouri as there are residents of Pettis county. He said that there are more than 55,000 government employees while Pettis county's 1890 population was 31,577.

"Many of these employees are primarily engaged in providing non-defense services for the public," the survey director added.

Staples also suggested that Missouri citizens demand a balanced state general revenue budget. A house of representatives committee has approved an appropriation bill for current operations which exceeds by a considerable amount the estimated general revenue for this biennium.

"A state government cannot abandon the practice of living within its anticipated income any more than an individual can do so," Staples declared. "To abandon the practice of balancing the budget within income will be to start Missouri down a road that will lead to financial difficulties — financial difficulties which will in the future impair some of the same state services and institutions for which heavy appropriations are now being sought."

Speaking of the state income tax reduction plan recently introduced in the legislature at the request of Governor Forrest Smith, Staples said that the survey has endorsed and supported it because it is sound and practical.

"The outstanding feature of the plan, even greater than the immediate tax relief, is that it tends to relate state expenditures more closely than at present to the amount of money the state takes from its taxpayers rather than the surpluses available, and prevents accumulation of excess reserves to the point where they attempt unnecessary spending."

Clyde Heynen, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

C. L. Hanley, member of the committee on support of churches and their spiritual aims, announced that Kiwanians would be expected to observe "Go to Church Sunday" Dec. 9. A survey revealed that 12 churches are represented in the membership of the Sedalia club.

The board of directors authorized Kiwanis to sponsor a float in the Christmas parade.

The 1952 board of directors re-elected Pinkney Miller as secretary. Club guests were: Ed Smith with Arthur Morgan; the Rev. S. Vandemerre, and Guy Peabody.

It is estimated that 1,000 U. S. children lose the sight of an eye each year because of play with dangerous toys.

Interpreting The News

General Ridgway's headquarters took a perfectly logical action in Korea in the fashion, without any apparent regard for its impact on anxious public throughout the world, and turned and event of major significance into a 24-hour snafu.

Officials were still busy Thursday trying to clear up just what happened in Korea Wednesday about stopping the shooting. Troop commanders received orders to keep up reconnaissance but send out no raiding patrols, react against enemy action but initiate no attacks, avoid casualties and demonstrate Allied willingness to observe a cease-fire.

The orders were marked secret as though that would have any effect when they reached 150,000 men and the guns stopped. Barred from the official wording, reporters used such terms as "de facto cease-fire," "gentlemen's agreement," (the later based on Communist compliance in some sectors), and speculated that the orders might probably have come from the White House.

The President's press secretary immediately denied any cease-fire order, apparently playing on the word.

It was indicated later that the actual order was issued without the knowledge of the defense, state or executive departments. Ridgway's command acted, presumably, under its broad authority to do what was necessary about conducting the Korean war.

That such an order was necessary is unquestioned. The truce negotiators had agreed upon the present battle line as a line of demarcation provided other cease-fire prerequisites could be agreed upon in 30 days. To spend lives now for more territory which might have to be returned later would have violated all concepts of humanity and, politically, would have taken as evidence of Allied doubt that the tentative buffer zone agreement would ever amount to anything.

But the Communists had made and lost a demand for a temporary cease-fire pending completion of the truce negotiations. The U. S. refusing to give up the advantage of military pressure in the talks, Washington was not going to let the inference get around that there was anything politically binding about the wait and see order. It was not going to let anybody think there was any sort of gentlemen's agreement at this point.

Yet here was relief for hundreds of thousands of anguished Allied mothers and fathers, not only of men in Korea, but of men in the army who might be going to Korea, even of boys still to be inducted into the services. Even if it could not be taken as the beginning of the end of all the fighting, it could at least be taken as a 30-day respite from death. To everyone in the world it meant a concrete hope that active fighting might not have to be resumed and that the danger of spreading war would be eased.

But the people were kept in agonized suspense, instead, because even after the blurred picture began to emerge they got denials and no explanations.

The enemy may have some excuse for not wanting to tell the enemy your plans in such a case, although Communist inactivity suggests that doesn't apply this time either. But the total lack of public relations policy in such an event is hardly excusable.

Bethel Club Told Of 'isms' and How They Affect All

Miss Elizabeth McCraw, home agent of Warsaw, spoke before a meeting of the Bethel club in Lincoln Thursday afternoon. The theme of the talk was, "Capitalism, Socialism and Communism."

She began by expressing her desire and the need to understand the many forms of "isms" we read and hear so much about and added that the world today is governed by three systems:

1—America's own capitalist system, whereby citizens enjoy freedom in all its forms; 2—The socialist system, now used in England, which is a mixture of socialism and capitalism; and 3—Russia's communistic system, which is a mixture of the three systems of socialism, capitalism and communism.

"Citizens of a capitalist nation," she said, "are free to choose the type of work in which they are most interested or best suited. They receive pay for services rendered, are allowed to own and operate their own enterprises and are free to spend their earnings as they see fit." She added, "In socialist countries the larger industries are generally owned by the government and many shortages of foods, etc., now exist as a result of wars."

In communistic Russia, it was said, there is no such thing as free private enterprise. Enterprises are chosen by communists as a whole. Citizens work, receive no pay, but are provided for by the government with their various needs, provided the things needed are available. She illustrated the point by saying that three Russians employed in the same type of work might have individual needs for, perhaps, one a pair of shoes, another a dress, and still another a coat. Upon making application for these various needs it might be learned that many coats were available, but there were no dresses or shoes. Therefore, those in need of dress and shoes received nothing even though they had done the same amount of work as the citizen who received the coat.

Since the average housewife spends 80c of every dollar earned, the agricultural and economic policy of the world affects them more than anyone else, and it is extremely important for each to study and thoroughly understand these various situations, and different forms of "isms."

During the business session, Mrs. H. B. Lynch, president, distributed literature to new officers and appointed Mrs. Don Hedrick and Mrs. Herbert Hansen to accompany her to the county council meeting which was held at Warsaw, Nov. 17.

A Christmas party, to be held at the home of Mrs. R. G. Carney, and a card and handkerchief shower for a former member, who is ill, were made.

Mrs. Daisy Suhl, hostess, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. McCraw and Mrs. Dick Hughes were visitors.

Sale Of Plane Netted Him $5,000

Caudle Admits He Dealt With Agent Of 2 In Tax Mess

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—T. Lamar Caudle, ousted two weeks ago as the government's top tax prosecutor, acknowledged today that he accepted $5,000 as a commission on the sale of an airplane to an investigator for two New Yorkers later convicted of tax fraud.

He also told House investigators that he might have been instrumental in getting two delays in the trial of the New Yorkers, Samuel Aaron and Jacob Friedus.

Gamblers Lose Test Decision On Recent Tax

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—A special three-judge tribunal held today that gamblers cannot seek the protection of federal courts in an effort to escape complying with the new federal gambling tax.

The panel ruled that the tax law "appears to be constitutional," but that in any event federal courts will not aid in the "protection of illegal enterprises."

"We think the act is constitutional," the judges said. "But we think it unnecessary to discuss the constitutional question . . ."

They added that gamblers have no right to seek relief in the federal courts because, in line with the old legal principles, they do not come into court with "clean hands."

Data Must Be Given

The ruling was handed down in a test case brought by a Washington man who was refused a gambling occupation stamp when he failed to give information requested on the application blank.

"The complaint," the judges said, "clearly implies and manifests a clear concession in oral argument, that what plaintiff seeks is the intervention of the court for the protection of a criminal business."

Private attorneys said the case would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The new tax law requires all gamblers to buy a $50 occupation tax stamp and to pay 10 per cent of the wagers they receive.

The three-judge ruling cleared the way for Internal Revenue agents to crack down on gamblers who fail to pay for tax stamps by a Dec. 1 deadline.

Today's was the first court test of the new tax, which went into effect Nov. 7.

Newstand Man Brings Suit

In a two-count injunction suit brought by Hayes L. Combs, a Washington newstand operator, it was contended the law is invalid on the ground it requires stamp applicants to supply information which "tends to incriminate" and which could be used for prosecution.

Combs applied for a stamp, but gave only his name and address. He refused to answer other questions about his business address, his employers, his agents of his associates, and didn't get the stamp.

He asked the court to require the government to issue the stamp without his having to answer such questions.

He also sought to enjoin the government from disclosing any information it might get from Combs' answers. The suit said failure to get the stamp would cause Combs "immediate and irreparable injury."

Myron G. Ehrlick and Joseph Stinick, Combs' attorneys, said the ruling would be appealed directly to the Supreme Court. This is permitted in cases involving constitutional issues.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Nov. 29—(AP)—A five-state group today began mobilizing resources for more flood protection.

Members of the Missouri-Arkansas-Basin Flood Control Association were gathering here and leaders were planning for tomorrow's general session.

Legislative, finance and public information committees worked all day on recommendations to place before the meeting.

Sen. Andrew F. Schoepfle (R-Kas.) and Rep. Erret P. Scrivner (R-Kas.) will take part in the discussions.

Other changes in the top command of the State Department and foreign service are in prospect.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, a key figure in American diplomacy for several years and the architect of recent U. S. Far Eastern policy, is expected to resign in a few weeks.

It is understood that Rusk has been negotiating with the Rockefeller Foundation, and that various other private research groups have been interested in obtaining his services.

No successor has been selected, but it is known that among those under consideration for his Far Eastern post is John M. Allison, career diplomat and close associate of foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles in negotiating the Japanese peace treaty.

Other changes in the top command of the State Department and foreign service are in prospect.

Coup Ousts Pro-Soviets In Damascus

DAMASCUS, Syria, Nov. 29—(AP)—Syria's new pro-Russian premier and all his ministers were arrested today in a swift, bloodless coup by Lt. Col. Adib Shishkely, a power behind the scenes here since 1949.

Old rivalries were apparent between the dominant Populist party and the army Shishkely directs as chief of staff.

The Syrian strong man never gave Populist Marouf Dawlubi, advocate of closer Arabic-Russian ties, a chance to get set as successor to pro-western Premier Hassan El Hakeem, a backer of the projected middle east defense command who resigned Nov. 10.

Less than 24 hours after Dawlubi succeeded in forming a coalition cabinet with the backing of his Populists, Independents and the Moslem Brotherhood, the soldiers struck.

In addition to the ministers, other Populist leaders and independent members of Parliament supporting their policy were rounded up. Populist newspapers were reported suspended.

Shishkely met with President Hashim Bey Attasy, parliamentary leaders and other political figures. It was expected that Dawlubi, who had arranged to keep the defense ministry and resultant power over the armed forces for himself, would be forced to resign and someone outside Parliament be asked to form a new government.

Former Premier Khaled Bey El Azem has been mentioned as a possible premier-designate.

The center of more than a dozen government crises and coups in the last 32 months, Damascus remained calm.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—President Truman announced bluntly today that the fighting will continue in Korea as long as there is a possibility of United Nations forces being "caught off-balance" by the enemy in a peace trap.

"The continued pressure of our forces on the enemy constitutes the strongest incentive for the latter to agree to a just armistice," the President told a news conference at this Naval submarine base.

"Any premature slackening of our efforts would cost us more casualties in the long run than need be lost."

The President followed the reading of his prepared statement with an off-the-cuff lecture to press associations and newspapers on what he said were fake cease fire stories that grow out of hot competition for news.

Two Stories Singled-Out

He singled-out a premature armistice story by the United Press' Roy Howard in 1918 and an Associated Press story out of Seoul, Korea, yesterday asserting that orders from the highest sources, possibly the White House, brought ground fighting to a halt in Korea.

Mr. Truman termed the Roy Howard story a fake and said the AP story was on a parallel with it.

The President said he understood yesterday's AP story out of Seoul sprang out of the intense competition for news.

Addressing himself then to the representatives of the press associations and the independent newspapers at the conference, he said they must be very careful in this very dangerous time to stick to the truth.

It seems to him, he said, that the welfare of the United States, the United Nations and the world as a whole is much more important than any competitive situation that may exist among any newshounds.

Mr. Truman, in his prepared statement, said he hoped everybody understood "there has been no cease fire in Korea and that there can be none until an armistice has been signed."

He said it is our duty to continue fighting until UN objectives are achieved.

Safety Must Be Assured

"Only then will the future safety of the United Nations forces, including those who are prisoners of the enemy, be assured," he said. "We can not allow our men to be caught off-balance by the enemy in case we cannot reach a satisfactory armistice agreement."

A spokesman for the Associated Press in New York said:

"There is no foundation for suggesting 'pressure' will be scrupulously followed by the government as source of further tax contributions."

"Co-operatives will have to maintain their present tax position," he said, "whether it is justified or not."

Wherry Succumbs To Illness

Pneumonia Causes Untimely Death Of GOP Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Senator Kenneth Spicer Wherry of Nebraska, one of the top Republicans in the Senate and a jolly, aggressive salesman of old-line GOP policy, died today at the age of 59.

Wherry, who had been floor leader for the Republicans since 1949, died of pneumonia. He had undergone an abdominal operation last month but lately had been reported recuperating.

His secretary, Lorne Kennedy, said the doctors had authorized him to say that the operation disclosed a malignant tumor but that the immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

Wherry became ill last night and was taken to the George Washington University hospital this morning, suffering from chills and fever with respiratory complications.

Republican national chairman Guy George Gabrielson mourned his death in a statement saying "the country and the Republican party have lost a valiant fighter for the American way of life."

His wise counsel and vigor will be his place in the critical days ahead.

His Beliefs Never Shaken

A never-let-up batter for the political causes he believed in, Wherry had been looking forward to further service in the Senate and perhaps to a major role in the 1952 presidential campaign. There had been indications that his name would be put before the Republican convention as a presidential candidate.

Wherry came out of Nebraska in 1942, with the background of a great salesman—"Lightning Ken" he was called—and swept his way to high position in the Senate hierarchy. He was the first freshman Senator ever to be given the job of party whip, or assistant floor leader.

He fought against virtually everything proposed or undertaken by President Truman, but the President once wrote him:

"While you and I are as far apart as t h e poles on policy, I can admit you are an honest opponent."

Wherry fought as price and rent controls and the handling of the Korean War—he likened the President's firing of General Douglas MacArthur to the acts of pygmies trying to bring down a giant.

As the GOP floor leader, he took the stand that it was not his job to make policy, but to carry it out. However, he was a prime mover in bringing about a change in the Senate rules on limitation of debate. Under this rule, which has been criticized by advocates of Mr. Truman's "civil rights" proposals, the Senate may clamp down on filibusters by a vote of 64 to its 86 members.

Wherry got deeply interested in politics because a county fair flopped. He was promoting the fair and when the bad condition of Nebraska roads ruined its attendance he ran for the legislature on a platform demanding better roads.

He was elected and went on to become the Republican state chairman and U. S. Senator. He had served earlier as councilman and mayor in his home town of Pawnee City.

Funeral arrangements, with burial expected to be at Pawnee City, will be completed later.

He's Brother Hopes General Doesn't Seek Bid Of Either Party

TACOMA, Nov. 29—(AP)—Edgar N. Eisenhower, the brother of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, said today he hoped the general would not seek the presidential nomination on any ticket.

Eisenhower, who maintains a law office here, said he had informed General Eisenhower of his feelings in a letter posted yesterday.

"I told him that I hoped he would not run," Eisenhower said. He also disclaimed ever having a conversation with Rep. Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.) concerning the general's candidacy.

"I never heard of the fellow before," Eisenhower said. "I never had that kind of a conversation with him or anyone else."

Velde said in Washington today that he had been introduced to Eisenhower by Senator Cain (R-Wash.) and had questioned the Tacoma lawyer about General Eisenhower's refusal to say whether he was a Democrat or a Republican.

Velde quoted Eisenhower as saying his brother was "definitely" a Republican and would "definitely" seek the GOP nomination.

Velde said he himself favors Senator Dirksen (R-Ill.) for the Republican nomination.

Veteran Korea Observer Says Pressure Brought Cease-Fire

(Editor's Note: Robert Emsun, writer of the following interpretive and background dispatch on the Korean war, is chief of the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo. His analytical articles have won wide commendation.)

By Robert Emsun

TOKYO, Nov. 29—(AP)—This week the war in Korea began grinding to an inconclusive end.

Fighting might break out again, from time to time on a small scale, but there was every indication that United Nations troops heading in to North Korea had come to the end of the trail.

Thousands of casualties every month had taught the Chinese and North Korea Communists that without more planes and tanks from Russia they had no hope of ever cracking United Nations defenses again.

Only small engagements here and there broke the strange interlude of silence which fell across the snow-cold Korea hills.

Despite denial from everyone in the long chain of command, from the White House right on down, an order had gone out to front line doughboys advising them to take it easy.

Take It Easy, Boys

"No more aggressive patrolling and don't fire unless you're fired upon."

That was the essence of the order. It went into effect at midnight Nov. 27. It coincided with establishment of a temporary cease-fire line along the front which had been agreed upon that day by United Nations and Communist delegates to the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

The only trouble with all the denials was that they denied a fact that had been ordered. But nobody said there was a cease-fire. There was an order to halt aggressive action. This was as good as a de facto cease-fire, which is a cease-fire without the necessity of signing documents.

A de facto cease-fire was exactly what United Nations negotiators at the Kooka armistice talks had been saying all along they wouldn't stand for.

Then what caused the sudden change in policy?

Pressure.

Ridgway Bears Brunt

The folks at home were putting pressure on their congressmen. The congressmen were putting pressure on the State Department. The State Department was putting pressure on Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the commander of all United Nations forces in Japan and Korea.

"You don't know how much pressure is being put on Ridgway," a highly placed officer at one headquarters said. "And it isn't only coming from the folks back home."

lowed by numerous smaller explosions in rapid succession for almost an hour.)

Authorities had no early clue whether the blast was accidental or caused by sabotage.

Following the first detonation at 1 p.m. Thursday, CST ammunition was thrown high into the air and exploded like a gigantic fireworks display.

Flames rose high over the area, spreading a red glare that lit up the night.

The arsenal was moved to Pusan from Yongdongpo on the outskirts of Seoul at the outbreak of the war in June, 1950.

Arsenal A Grenade Plant

The arsenal was greatly expanded in the last 18 months. Hand grenades were manufactured there. In addition a large variety of arms and explosives were stored in the area.

Heavy loss of life was feared among the refugees from the northern provinces who had settled on the outskirts of the arsenal.

Airmen Spot Record Total For 1 Night

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30—(AP)— Communist trucks rolled in unprecedented numbers last night toward a battle front that was virtually stilled except for big gun duelling.

The Far East Air Forces reported sighting the astonishing total of 9,200 trucks rushing supplies and possibly troops under cover of darkness to the front lines all across the Korean peninsula.

This is almost double the previous record. The Reds obviously were swinging into a big buildup during the strange lull which developed Wednesday after truce teams had agreed on a provisional cease-fire line and the Allied ground commander issued "certain military instructions" to his Eighth Army.

The Fifth Air Force said its night fliers, gorged with targets, attacked more than 3,500 of the trucks and destroyed 300.

This ominous truck movement was coupled with increasing Red air activity. The Reds sent out a record one-day total of from 300 to 350 Russian-made MIGS Thursday. There were few clashes but in one brief encounter three U. S. jets and one MIG were damaged.

2,000 Seen On One Road

The largest sightings of Red trucks were across the central waist of Korea along an east-west highway. At least 2,000 trucks were reported on that one route leading to the eastern front.

Other large movements were sighted all along the western road network leading south from Sinanju and Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Superforts from Okinawa joined in the quickening air war with strikes Thursday night against railway yards in north west Korea and on the northeast coast. Three Superforts also heaped fragmentation bombs on enemy troops on one unspecified sector of the front.

Thursday Quiet

An Eighth Army briefing officer said of the ground action that Thursday was one of the quietest days of the war.

Except for minor patrol clashes, the only action broke out north-west of Yanggu on the eastern front. Allied troops twice fought back to the crest of a towering hill after small Communist forces had seized the height.

A briefing officer said not a single Allied infantryman died Thursday along the Third Division front in the Yanggu area of western Korea. There was no contact along the western front and only four patrol clashes—excepting the hill action—in two corps areas on the central and eastern front.

Allied riflemen huddled close to warming fires and worried about the Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Cross ordered his Third Division troops to bundle up against the cold after six frostbite cases were reported.

The Eighth Army commander, commenting on widespread reports that Allied troops had been ordered to fire only if necessary, said yesterday his instructions had been misinterpreted.

New Obstacle May Break-Down Armistice Talks

MUNSAK, Korea, Friday, Nov. 30—(AP)—A Red proposal for gradual withdrawal of foreign troops threatened today to throw the Korean armistice talks about where they were when they began last July 10.

With the war in a state of some uncertainty since a provisional buffer zone was decided last Tuesday, early withdrawal of foreign troops again has become the core of the Communist position.

When the talks began last July the Reds demanded "immediate" withdrawal of all foreign troops. The Allies forced them to abandon this on the grounds it was a political question. They agreed then that it would be the fifth and last item of discussion and would consist merely of recommendations to home governments for later decision.

(A U. N. Command information bulletin issued in Tokyo accused the Reds of "returning to the realm of politics" which stalled the early discussions. It said the Communist demand for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea "is far removed from the actual sphere of discussions at this point, and must be viewed with suspicion.")

The South Korean government, in a statement issued today at Pusan, asked the United Nations for three basic items in any armistice agreement—removal of Chinese troops, protection of South Korean prisoners and a time limit for unifying Korea.
